Alberta Schools Are All Operating

The Hon. Geo. P. Smith, minister of education, has issued a statement with regard to the teacher supply and the operation of schools throughout the province, which shows the situation to be most gratifying. Mr. Smith states that the schools of the province are today operating one hundred per cent strong. There are about 4000 teachers engaged, and of these about 3000 are in rural and village schools. While this is the period during which the number of permits reaches the maximum each year, there are only 227 schools in the province in the hands of permit teachers. This is the smallest number of permits in use during the months of May and June since the province was formed. All the permit teachers have at least Grade XI high school standing, and many of them are first, second, or third year university students, while some are even university graduates, the only thing lacking being their Normal School training.

Mr. Smith points out, however, that the situation, encouraging as it is, does not mean that all our troubles are over. In addition to the 227 permit teachers, there are about 200 fully qualified teachers from amongst the university students who are taught for the summer months. They will return to their studies in October, and the province will be left again with a shortage of probably 400 teachers for the winter months; and in spite of considerable numbers coming in from other provinces, there will be a steady wastage which will cause that condition to prevail until the following April when the new Normal School class will graduate. The supply of teachers is constantly fluctuating, and at certain periods of the year we may expect serious difficulty for some time to come. The fact remains, however, that while we expect a shortage of possibly 400 teachers during the winter of 1921-22, the shortage each winter for several years past has ranged all the way from 800 to more than 1500.

We can therefore judge of the situation only by comparison, and are three very encouraging facts which may be stated: In the past two or three years, the number of permits has been reduced to one-third of the original number. The shortage of teachers has been reduced accordingly from 1500 to 400. And the tide is flowing strongly in our favor as large numbers of teachers are returning to the teaching profession and more students are offering themselves.

The Department of Education is leaving nothing to chance, and at present moment a most thorough and systematic survey is being made of every High School class in the Province of Alberta, and questionnaires submitted to the pupils in order to learn in advance what curriculum may be expected in the Normal Schools for the coming term. Mr. Smith says that while it may be dangerous to prophesy, he is expecting all three normal schools to be filled to capacity, and he is convinced that if the tendency of the past twelve months is maintained, the teacher shortage problem in Alberta will be entirely overcome within two years.

Join the Red Cross

Who the Great War ended—yes, even before the joyful news of the signing of the Armistice—the statesmen and thoughtful men of all countries turned their attention to a consideration of the gigantic problem connected with the relief of the awful damage inflicted on the world.

It was not the material damage so much that was the cause of deep concern, the lives, the money, the property, the towns, industrial establishments, railways, mines and home buildings could be restored.

The real problem was the people themselves. With millions of the world's most able-bodied and virile young men killed, or maimed and weakened for life, with millions of women homeless, widows as a result of the strain and hardships and sorrows through which they had passed, with millions of babies and young children undernourished during the most vital years when wholesome food and plenty of it should have been forthcoming; and with the mental view of everybody far from normal, in many ways distorted, what all thoughtful men and women asked themselves, of the future of the race, mentally, morally, physically. And if the race is weak in these respects, what of the State itself, because after all, a Nation is just what its people are. It is not wealth, or great industries, or large cities, or famous buildings that make a nation, but the people themselves.

The war had made vividly clear some things which a quarter of a century of peace might not have revealed with so much impressiveness. The war had given us a revelation, for it may finally effect a revelation, of the relative worth and ability of the ordinary man and woman. During the war the ordinary soldier, seaman and airman stuck to their duties and with a courage and endurance which have never been surpassed. Two out of the three who were killed were ordinary men and women. It was a sudden, new physical condition of a great proportion of the men in all countries. In the allied progress of civilization, in the organization of industry, in the development of big business for creating and controlling machinery and for the improvement of human life and mind, and in the development of good health living and working under wholesome conditions—had been a large extent neglected.

Think of the significance of these figures: During the last year of the war, the number of men called up to arms in Great Britain was 2,453,388. Out of every nine men, three were fit and healthy, two were in infirm health, three might be described as physical wrecks, and one as a chronic invalid with a permanent hold on life. Since that was the physical condition of men at their most vigorous, what would be the condition of health among the women and children? In other countries the examination of the men called to the colors revealed conditions somewhat similar. In Canada, with all her advantages of open spaces and outdoor life, after 36,000 deaths under the Military Service Act, 1912-29, of men of military age, were found to be unfit for full service in the field. Even without war the races seemed to be heading for physical deterioration and disaster.

As a result of these shocking and altogether alarming disclosures, when the Covenant of the League of Nations was drafted, Article XXV was inserted which binds every nation joining the League to encourage and promote a national Red Cross movement having as primary object the relief of the suffering, the restoration of health, and the mitigation of suffering throughout the world. The Red Cross was selected for this important work because of its international character, its splendid organization, and its worldwide reputation.

It is the profound realization of those who are impressed with the importance and possibilities of the ideals expressed in the Red Cross programme as above outlined that their realization is possible through the encouragement and support which such work in the Red Cross alone can give. Wide-spread and popular membership in the Red Cross is, therefore, the necessary condition of success in its peace-time programme.

To attain that universal membership, a world-wide enrollment campaign is being held this year. The dates in the three Prairie Provinces of Canada are June 5 to 11. Membership in the Red Cross involves an annual fee of one dollar for adults, and of twenty-five cents for boys and girls under 18 years of age, but this is the only—indeed, the only—financial aspect of the membership.

It is the intelligent interest, the active sympathy, the whole-hearted support of all people in a nation-wide, year-wide, crusade for Good Health that the Red Cross desires, and to assure this it is every man, woman and child in the Red Cross desired to do his or her part.

Following all previous wars, the Red Cross with its work for the time being completed, fell into a state of disorganization. When the war ended, the Red Cross was left with a large number of men and women who were not only physically fit, but also mentally and morally fit, and who were ready to begin their work for the world.

Now, however, while carrying on its great peace-time programme for the welfare and betterment of all mankind, it will be maintained fully organized, efficient and ready to act should Canada ever again be called to arms.

The Red Cross demonstrated that it was worthy of support during the war. Having now highly resolved to dedicate itself to the task of carrying on the obligations of the Covenant of the League of Nations, it can be trusted to faithfully endeavor to render red cross service to Canada and to people. Therefore—Join the Red Cross.

Will Complete The "Bismarck"

Belast Shipbuilders Will Take Over Ship Left Incomplete By Germans.

Belast, Harland and Wolff, the British shipbuilders, are to take over the completion of the Bismarck, the largest ship in the world, which is in the North Star Shipyard.

She was specially mentioned in the Peace Treaty and it was agreed that she should be completed and delivered to Great Britain.

Her progress has been very slow, but there have never been more than two or three hundred men working on her. A fire in October caused further delay.

Germany has expressed itself by saying that she has been quite unable to get anything like definite instructions from the Allies.

For long it was doubtful whether any company would buy her, but at last the White Star Line has taken over the ship.

At the purchase of the Imperator, 4,000 tons smaller, by the Cunard Line.

Fire Protection in Finland

Government Compels Every Building To Have a Ladder.

Finland takes more precautions than any other nation to protect itself against fire. Indeed, it is a nation of fire-eaters, for by government enactment it is compulsory for every building to have a ladder.

The ladder-making for domestic use is one of the country's most important industries. From the coast to the inland, every home in the country must have its ladder.

The government regulation, which is enforced by the police, is that of every building to provide with a ladder, is an old one, and is an echo of the days when the houses and towns of the country were entirely of wood.

Modern building construction of stone and brick has made no change in the law.

Good Canadian Citizens

Scandinavians Are Hardworking and Intensely Patriotic.

A most gratifying feature of Scandinavian settlement in Canada is that it is almost wholly agricultural, and in the west they will be found in the highest and most progressive districts.

While retaining their national individuality, their customs, language and religion, they are British in sentiment and intensely patriotic, as their contribution to Canada's army evidenced.

With an inherent realization of their own worth, they stand, without enmeshment in any other feet, and are absorbed as Canadians without losing their individual qualities.

"Crisp-headed," shrewd, ambitious and hardworking, they are of the best of Europe's contribution to a pioneer nation.

Mr. H. B. Barker, Gloucester, Ont., writes: "My skin looked so badly over my face that I was ashamed to look at myself. Within a week I was back to normal and my skin was so good that I was proud of it."

It is a most gratifying feature of Scandinavian settlement in Canada is that it is almost wholly agricultural, and in the west they will be found in the highest and most progressive districts.

While retaining their national individuality, their customs, language and religion, they are British in sentiment and intensely patriotic, as their contribution to Canada's army evidenced.

With an inherent realization of their own worth, they stand, without enmeshment in any other feet, and are absorbed as Canadians without losing their individual qualities.

"Crisp-headed," shrewd, ambitious and hardworking, they are of the best of Europe's contribution to a pioneer nation.

C. Smith will be in charge at the hospital.

Thursday evening the Ponoka ball team paid a return visit to Wetaskiwin, and won out by a score of 7 to 3. It was somewhat of a fast pickings, Ponoka at no time having to exert themselves. It was plain to be seen that the home team was still suffering from headwinding, contracted by their visit to Ponoka on the 17th.

The Ponoka brass band gave an entertainment at the hospital on Sunday afternoon, the 15th. The music was much enjoyed both by the staff and patients, and it is hoped that other visits will be paid. Truly our band boys are generous with their services, and deserve every encouragement from the citizens.

Professor A. E. Ottwell, extension department of the University of Alberta, will give a lecture in the town hall on Monday, May 20, at 8.15. "Canada Tomorrow" is his subject. He also has lantern slides to illustrate his lecture. A silver collection will be taken. The Women's Institute are getting the professor here, and are anxious that he have a large audience.

The time for the Chautauque visit is approaching, and will run for six days from June 23. Better make a note of the date.

A football match will be played on the hospital grounds between teams drawn from the town and attendants. There are a number of good players in both teams and a good game should be witnessed.

Tickets for the Minstrel entertainment on June 1st, can be had at Glauser's jewelry store.

The Ponoka Minstrels will re-appear in the Empress Theatre on Wednesday evening, June 1st.

The trial time table for the summer runnings changed on Sunday. Particulars will be seen in advertisement.

Ponies are again becoming popular, and a number of families enjoyed Sunday afternoon at Lucas Lake. Our summer is a short one, and it is up to the people to enjoy it while it lasts.

Two mail routes are advertised in this issue. What is known as Route No. 4, Ponoka by Ferrybank, and the other, Ferrybank to Clustersold.

Seeding is completed in this district, and the grain is making a nice start. While nothing is suffering at present, a good rain would be welcome.

Good fishing is being enjoyed on the river, and young and old can be seen wending their way home with heavy catches of fish. Our river is a great asset.

The Minstrel entertainment will be repeated in the Empress Theatre on Wednesday evening June 1.

The Ladies' Rest Room has just been re-papered and painted, besides undergoing a number of alterations. Judging by the number of patrons, the room must be proving a great boon to the ladies of our district.

BODDY.—At the Memorial Hospital, Red Deer, on May 18th, to Mr and Mrs E. G. Boddy, of Olive, a son. We regret to report that the little one passed away on Friday evening.

EVANS.—On Thursday, May 19, to Mr and Mrs P. Evans, a son.

It has been brought to the Herald's notice that a great many fish are being destroyed while trying to negotiate the ladders on the dam. Parties go down to the dam and trap the fish; the suckers they do not want, but kill them and throw them back into the water, with the result that the river bottom is "alive" with dead fish. This will have to be put a stop to, and the authorities should get busy and make an example.

Old Fort Ellis and Sioux Indians

Crossing the Plains to Fort Carlton
Summer 1875.

By O-G-E-MAS-ES (Little Clerk).

On looking over my last article it may be that my readers will be left with the impression that Chief Fatale Mc Donald was a tyrannical, unjust man, but this was by no means the case. You, however, must understand that Hudson's Bay officers in charge of districts at this time had practically absolute powers. Truly, Canada had taken over the country, but her jurisdiction for all practical purposes ended when you left Fort Garry (now Winnipeg), and in the great realm of the Northwest the H. B. Co. ruled supreme. They had jails at many of their head posts, with hangarous and law-breakers for unruly servants, or law-breaking Indians, and they used them when required. Give absolute authority to any man and he is apt to become more or less of a despot. Shortly after leaving the Hudson's Bay service in 1883, and being at that time in poor health and circumstances, Mr. Archie McDonald was exceedingly kind and helped me to get a start on my own account.

To resume our trip across the plains. The rate of progress daily was governed by the number of carts, whose equals from wooden axles could be heard for miles, in spite of constant applications of grease. From two to four carts were pulled daily was a fair average and one must know that the ponies subsisted entirely on grass, as carts were unknown in the wild west, and the men would start with the carts very early in the morning, while the bourgeois would not start until breakfast was laid and early catch up with the train for dinner. Ahead of the party rode Chief Guide John Hounie, generally in the lead, on the side, thirsting to imbibe all the plainsman's fare possible, and sometimes the other carts were with us. Armed guards had to be set night and day, the horses watched very carefully, for stealing was rife, and no doubt our large brigade was a great help in this time to the scouting Indian. The prairie was covered with fresh buffalo sign and the guide's opinion was that a large herd was just to be seen. In fact a few old bulls were sighted by our riders, but Mr. Even would not allow any hunting for fear of losing or injuring the horses, and this much to the disgust of the youngsters who were all anxious to shoot a buffalo.

About the tenth day out we met a small party of Saulteaux coming in from the great plains to the south-west, en route to the Hudson's Bay. They met us all marching on foot, with drums beating, their headmen rigged out in scarlet cloth, paint and feathers galore. They were the usual shaggy hands and a smoke, then small presents were handed to them by Mr. McDonald and, in return, they received a welcome supply of tender young buffalo meat just killed the day before. They had no carts, only travois, that is to the horse, and they were lashed on each side of a pony, a parchment laced across behind the horse and on the robes, dressed buffalo leather, dried and tanned, and were piled, over their large spoked wheels were laden in the same way. With the exception of a few small items that made them live for a while, nothing of importance happened until we reached the south branch of the Saskatchewan river, where some fun in crossing the river, there being no ferry. We made rafts of the large wooden cut wheels over which buffalo parchments were laced securely, and in the centre of these rafts were placed the women and children, all baggage, freight, etc. Swimmers were the most powerful, and I could not say how many times I crossed the river. The large band of ponies were left to the last and Jeanne Homme and I took them across, he explaining that on no account must we allow them to circle, for the remedy if one turned back to splash water in their faces. All went well but it took several days before the whole outfit was safely across. Another day's travel took us to Fort Carlton, which, unlike Ft. Assiniboia, was situated in the North Branch, close to the river, serving there without the loss of a pound of freight, much to the satisfaction of Chief Fatale. Lawrence Clark who ruled supreme over the Saskatchewan district with Carlton as headquarters. The fort was much on the same plan as Ft. Assiniboia, but in better order. This fine establishment took its name in 1867 by accident, as the Mounted Police and Volunteers were evacuating it, after the defeat at Duck Lake.

It was destined to lead to a land in the trading area and daily my cart while companions left for their various destinations. Some days after my arrival a packet arrived by canoe from Cumberland House (down the river), and that evening I was summoned to the office, where, in addition to Mr. Hamilton, who came from the Hudson's Bay, and Mr. Robert Hamilton. They informed me there was a pressing vacancy at the office and they were considering changing my appointment from Mackenzie River to that point, but they would like to see me first, and it was then decided that I go down the river on the first opportunity. Mr. Hamilton, who came from the Hudson's Bay, was an old friend of my father's, gave me much wise and kindly advice as to my future, and he said that he had practically his life time.

Several weeks passed in very pleasant company as Mr. Clarke had a very large family and there were several other ladies at the fort. Riding, duck shooting and boating were the principal amusements and we, as birds of passage, were not very hard. A York boat arrived from up the river, and I received orders to embark next morning. The error was that I had a terrible, made a descent of 1,500 feet in a parachute from an airplane at Chautau Field. When "Bing" landed he worked himself free from his harness, gave another good start to prevent his onward journey and ran to headquarters with a message carried in a pouch suspended from his neck. The performance was to carry the practicability of using dogs to tow airplanes when an airplane is unable to land.

Germans Reach Canada To Study Conditions

Business Men Confident of Capturing Pre-War Trade.

Quebec.—The German business men reached here on the steamship Empire of France. One of their number announced that they were merely coming to Canada to investigate commercial conditions and not to obtain business. Some of the Germans had rather a gloomy picture of conditions in the Fatherland, but all believed that it would not be long before the country would be a large part of the pre-war trade. They stated that already business between Germany and England was picking up. The unsettled labor conditions in the British Empire had resulted in England "coming to reason" sooner than she would otherwise have done, one German said.

British Could Restore Order

Polish Refugee Says Peace Impossible If French Have Commendable Intent.

Berlin.—Order cannot be restored in Upper Silesia while General Lore and any other Frenchman commands are in the area. Lore's intention to the execution of the Versailles treaty said Countess Scherff-Trois, who arrived here with other refugees who had escaped from the area affected by the Polish insurrection in the plebiscite area. The countess is a given communique to the despatch of the United States delegation at the Versailles Peace Conference. "When an Englishman or an Italian is given command of the despatch," she said, "Germans will have confidence, and it will be possible to restore order and disband the volunteer forces organized to fight against the Versailles treaty."

Carried Message When Airplane Was Unable to Land.

Rastatt.—A dog, a terrier, made a descent of 1,500 feet in a parachute from an airplane at Chautau Field. The performance was to carry the practicability of using dogs to tow airplanes when an airplane is unable to land.

Saskatchewan Premier Issues a Manifesto

States Platform on Which Appeal Will Be Made to the Electorate.

Regina.—A general provincial election in Saskatchewan will be held on Thursday, June 20, with nomination day one week previous, on Thursday, June 13. The fourth legislative assembly of Saskatchewan has just been dissolved, entered office on June 10, 1925. It was composed of sixty-two members, of whom fifty-two were Liberals in politics and supporters of the Mackenzie government, six Conservatives, three trade union members and one independent.

In his manifesto to the people of the province Premier Martin stated that the most important reason for the holding of an election at the present time is the desire of the government to give the people an opportunity to express themselves on provincial affairs at a time when there is no federal election in the immediate prospect. The public business of Saskatchewan should be dealt with on its merits and not confused or affected by issues which affect the whole of Canada and the questions which are of federal jurisdiction.

Regarding the work of the past four years, Premier Martin spoke of the extensions of the Saskatchewan Co-operative Elevator system which have been completed by the government. The growth of the Saskatchewan Co-operative Creameries, the progress made in co-operative marketing of livestock, and the success of the co-operative stock yards was briefly referred to.

In spite of very difficult financial conditions, about $2,000,000 has been loaned to farmers by the Farmers' Relief Work. The relief work in terms of crop failure, public health work, education, and other matters, has been carried out by the government. The government policies (if returned to office, to the following policy):

To continue the principle of co-operation between government and people in the solution of the economic problems connected with production and marketing, and as far as constitutional and financial powers would permit, to co-operate with the farmers in any practicable method of improving the system of marketing.

To continue the fight that the government is now waging for lower freight rates.

To provide for an agricultural survey of the province by the Saskatchewan College of Agriculture and the establishment of demonstration farms under the control of the college in close touch with the people.

To make a thorough investigation of the whole problem of tuberculosis in Saskatchewan, by experts, and the treatment of the disease, in addition to the support which the government is giving the Qu'Appelle Sanatorium.

To continue the policy of consulting the representatives of labor in all matters affecting their interests.

To continue the various lines of progress already established in the educational life of the province, and to continue the work of the Saskatchewan Board of Education, of ensuring to every child the most efficient elementary education possible; a thorough knowledge of the English language and the widest opportunities for higher education.

To further develop the co-ordinated highway system in the province, the furthering of the work of the Saskatchewan Board of Agriculture, and the construction of main roads leading to the various municipalities, and the rural municipal council, the work to be undertaken by the municipalities which have the necessary organization and equipment to do the work efficiently and economically.

The fullest possible development of the telephone system of the province, consistent with good business principles.

The government will not fortify its best efforts to obtain from the Dominion authorities the transfer to the province its natural resources, and will also further develop the work of the Bureau of Labor and Industries, investigating and making known the nature, extent and industrial value of the natural resources of the province, particularly of the northern unexplored part of the province.

The government will further develop its policy of assisting farmers in the purchase of livestock; it will encourage the work of the Farm Bureau, and as far as it is able, it will continue the policy of assisting financially the Saskatchewan Co-operative Creameries and the Saskatchewan Co-operative Stockyards.

The government recognizes the necessity for having taxation, both for municipal and provincial purposes, based on a just and equitable basis. A commission, representative of both urban and rural interests will be appointed to continue the incidence of the public revenue tax on the basis of a just and equitable basis. The government will continue its policy of removing any inequalities which may be found to exist between urban and rural communities.

A WOMAN'S HEALTH NEEDS GREAT CARE

When the Blood Becomes Watery a Breakdown Follows.

Every woman's health is dependent upon the condition of her blood. If the blood is watery, the body is weak, the system is out of balance, the blood is poor, the appetite weak, digestion a constant trouble, the nervous system, palpitation of the heart, shortness of breath, pallor, and nervousness. These are the signs that the blood is not in the condition of the blood, and the more the blood is watery, the more the body is weak. "Your Teeth"

By Rea Proctor McGeer, M.D., D.D.S., Editor of Oral Hygiene.

Copyright, 1921, by Rea Proctor McGeer.

When a raw recruit has been in the service long enough to learn that the shells and bullets that miss him do not hurt, he becomes a veteran. When he learns by experience that the missiles that strike him do hurt, he becomes a casualty.

The best way to have our teeth become veterans in the service of good health is to take care of them.

It is foolish to expose the teeth and mouth to needless infection by carelessness. Even with the best care that we know how to give, there may be decay of the teeth and infection of the gums, but by careful brushing as a habit, and early treatment of a tooth that is attacked by bacteria, the mouth may be kept healthy and serviceable as long as the rest of the body.

We commonly think of diet as a treatment for digestive disorders only. The mouth is the front door of the stomach and every decayed tooth, and every ill-fated spot on the gums, is really a digestive disturbance.

It is possible to so arrange the diet as to prevent decay of the teeth. The retention of the teeth is reasonably assured and, at the same time, the digestion and general health are benefited.

The one food in the world that is exactly suited to an infant's mother's milk. The children of mothers who refuse to nurse their children have a big lead in the race of life.

When the first baby teeth come in, there is a demand for something more than liquid food. The little teeth must chew, and the gums need pressure.

The baby seen in nine months of age, baby should have a little tooth with butter twice each day. After nine months, rusk and firm solid puddings, like boiled fish and milk, and cooled chicken come next. Do not forget that butter fat is absolutely necessary for growth.

The proper diet early, has found very effective in the case of good teeth.

Two Winter Fairs

Regina Holding One In November And One In March.

A winter fair comprising two sections, one to be held in November and the other in March, will be conducted in Regina in the coming season, according to a decision reached at a recent meeting of the board of directors of the Exhibition Association.

In November, when the first section of the fair is to be held, there will be the sheep and swine show, and the calf-feeding competition. The second section of the fair will be held in early spring, probably in March, and will include the stallion, fat cattle and poultry shows.

Premier Norris To Call Prairie Premiers' Conference

To Discuss Condition of Settlers and Unoccupied Land Problem.

Premier T. C. Norris, of Manitoba, has been requested to call a conference of the three prairie premiers to discuss and agree upon a plan for dealing with the unoccupied land problem in Western Canada.

It is generally agreed by the business and farming interests of the country that uniform provincial legislation is necessary to effectively assist the various colonization agencies in settling the idle lands close to railways and now held out of production.

A firm listing of unoccupied lands at fixed prices for a reasonable period was the main proposal contained in a memorial to the Western Governments by General A. D. McRae, managing director of the Western Canadian Colonization Association, a few days ago.

His suggestion for uniform legislation has been met with universal support in each of the three prairie provinces. The view is strongly held that the creation of a Land Board under the Minister of Agriculture in each province, which would take the findings of the unoccupied lands in Western Canada, and compile a medium through which all colonization agencies could operate, would be of considerable value.
